FLAVOR PAPER

Renowned illustrator Oliver Jeffers transforms your home into an underwater wonderland with his Sea Life wallpaper. The design features kelp rising from the ocean floor, beams of light penetrating from above, and a multitude of adorable aquatic creatures. The scene evokes the feeling of being inside a welcoming aquarium.

Sea Life in Salty is a digitally printed repeating mural featuring a deep turquoise undersea world, with occasional flashes of pink fish swimming by. The realistic lighting creates a natural ombré effect, with lighter shades of blue near the surface gradually darkening into deep teal as you submerge yourself. This transition causes the fish to appear black in the darker areas due to the absence of red light.

Oliver Jeffers MBE is a Northern Irish artist, illustrator, and storyteller who crafts thoughtful and inspiring works that delve into humanity, the planet, and climate change. Oliver splits his time between Belfast and Brooklyn. Flavor Paper worked with Oliver on his Brooklyn Museum installation "Life at Sea" - a children's art project about the health of our oceans and our hope for its future abundance, which was inspired by the underwater spread from his New York Times #1 bestselling book Here We Are.

Digitally printed to order in the USA.
