DIA DE DUMBO

by Dan Funderburgh

When one of our favorite local restaurants decided to open a new Mexican joint called Gran Electrica they approached Jon Sherman, Flavor Paper founder and creative director, about making a custom wallpaper to add some personality to the space. A Day of the Dead/Calaveras style toile reflecting the hood was decided upon and images of iconic DUMBO neighborhood scenes and appropriate Posada type art were chosen for Dan Funderburgh to work into a pattern. The result is a humorous look at the neighborhood through a skeletal Mexican viewpoint and includes Jane's Carousel, the Watchtower, kids in strollers with Crocs, hipsters on single speeds and cell phone talking yoga mat toting moms. You can follow the lightning bolts to find the restaurant. Pure DUMBO. Kinda Posada. ¡Que bueno!
